Those documents were donated to James A. Courtney by the writer and owner of those records at the writer's death. Those records must stay in this branch of the Courtney family unless he should decease without a family—then these documents will fall to the family of Leona Bell (Courtney) Dean for her to hold and give to her first grandson of Francis Dean. If he should have no son, then those documents will go to the first son of James E. Dean.

The genealogy of Elias Courtney and of Buefort Courtney, line of the Courtney line of family. They are as follows: Edward T. Courtney and of John A. Courtney and of a Joseph Courtney and Adolpus Courtney and Maryann Courtney and Martha Jane Courtney and their line of the Courtney families, and their descendants of the records of those family were assembled by the writer and the owner of those documents after more than 10 years of labor and a large amount of money as each persons record had to be checked and recheck to eliminate a possible mistake in those documents. A copy of those documents will be donated to the younger generation of these families of Elias and of the Buefort Courtney line of the Courtney family tree. There are lots of other Courtney families which I have omitted. They are William, Jessie and Rebecca and Burryann, James, and Sidney, and Sarah Courtney that I have omitted which belong to this family tree. Except Buefort Courtney, my grandfather, in whose line I am writing these record for their family and their family tree.

Your Cousin, Al Taylor

Current Version: July 9th. 2005

The original hand written version of Charles N. Courtney is on this same web site. There is a link between every other page in this text that will take you to those images. In this edited version there are some notable changes. First (Maiden Names) are in brackets if accompanied by a married name. I have removed the listing of family names, such as Alfred L. Hathaway Poorman Courtney Taylor, Jr. to just Alfred L. Taylor, Jr. my real name. I think this will make for less confusion. I have left in place Charles's repeating of the lineage with each person. I have added some information to this edition, Charles N. Courtney seems to have stopped working on this history about 1943, so any information that appears to account for event after that time are most likely the work of my grand mother Della Mae (Poorman) Hathaway, my mother Majorie Beatrice (Hathaway) Taylor and myself Al Taylor with help from my cousin Susan (Giglio) Gramelt. I have also corrected or at least tried to make consistent use of some names. Charles refers to Della Mae (Poorman) Hathaway's oldest son as Nathaniel Orla Hathaway other sources refer to him as Orla Nathaniel Hathaway and I have changed this text to that form.
